Social and Personal

The Lure of Old Songs. The Lute of Old Songs.

You were playing sweet and low.
The song of long ago;
And the high lamp's crimson shade
Poursed a softened light that made
Mystic shadows in your hair—
Shadows which were laughing there
As the shadows of the dawn
Leaped and laughed in days agone.

So you played—and so I dramed While the pranking firelight gleamed In its race along the wall; And I heard the boy days call In the songs that thrilled my heart With their subtly simple art—As when practiced hands are swept O'er a harp that long has slept.

Winding paths through meadowlands, Brooks that sang on silver sands, Bending branches on the trees, Noontime chants the honeybees, Drifting Indian summer haze, Pelting snows of wintry days, Wondrous stars that blazed above—All this you knew nothing of.

Yet you played, and, playing, wrought All the glories unforgot;
And the high lamp's ruddy glow Where the glints swayed to and fro Seemed some way to blend and blur into those fair days that were—Led me backward, mile on mile, To each golden olden while, W. D. NESHITT in Chicago Tribune.

YESTERDAY'S KALANDAR.

Mrs. Montague's Tea.

Society was kept busy yesterday with its social engagements.

It was most pleasantly entertained in the afternoon at the Executive Mansion, where Mrs. Montague was informally at home in honor of Mrs. Preston-Preston, or Naw York Callers after chatting with their charming hostess, and Mrs. Presion, were much interested in miniature work displayed. Vocal selections given during the reception, added greatly to the pleasure of those calling.

The mansion with its lovely pariors, filled with the cheerful hum of conversation, the music and flowers all seemed doubly pleasant to the many present, because of the delightful fashion 'if which hospitality was dispensed.

Young Ladies' Tea. Young Ladies Tea.

The Junior Hollywood Memorial Association gave an annual silver tea in Lee Camp hall that was a pleasant feature of the evening. Decorations were in Confedrate colors, red and white, and the girls, in their pretty white gowns, with red elbbons, carried out the beauty of the volor idea.

in their pretty white gowns, with red ebbons, carried out the beauty of the rolor idea.

The young ladies were kept busy responding to the demands of their numerous callers. The receiving line was made up of the officers of the Junior Association-Misses M. B. Baughman, Annie Jray, Anna Boykin, Annie Jacobs, Bessie Hill. Lizzie Townes and Mrs. W. I. Wade. Invited to receive with them were Mrs. N. V. Randolph, Mrs. Joseph Bryan, Miss Baughman, Mrs. A. J. Montague, Mrs. C. V. Pleasants, Mrs. Dudley Edwards, Miss Isoline Moses, Miss Goldenberg, Mrs. J. W. White and Mrs. L. E. Rogers, from the various other Confederate organizations in the city. Delicious refreshments were served. The hall presented an animated and beautiful appearance, and the occasion was probably one of the most enjoyable in the history of the organization, under whose auspices it was given.

Guild Concert at Clubs.

St. Hilda's Guld of St. Paul's Church, which includes in its membership some of the prettiest young girls and most agreeathe metrons in Richmond, made a great success, as it usually does, in a concert given at the Woman's Club last evening, for the benefit of the Ragged Mountain Mission.

TO-NIGHT.

By PERCY BYSSHE SHELLEY.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

Swiftly walk o'er the western wave,
Spirit of Night!
Out of the mist. Out of the misty eastern cave
Where, all the long and lone daylight, Thou wovest dreams of joy and fear Which make thee terrible and dear, Swift be thy flight!

> Wrap thy form in a mantle grey, Star-inwrought, Blind with thine hair the eyes of Day; Kiss her until she be wearled out. Then wander o'er city, and sea, and land Touching all with thine opiate wand— Come, long-sought!

When I arose and saw the dawn, I sighed for thee; When light rode high, and the dew was gone, And noon lay heavy on flower and tree, And the weary Day turned to his rest, Lingering like an unloved guest, I sighed for thee.

of 243333 Thy brother Death came, and cried, "Would'st thou me?"
Thy sweet child Sleep, the filmy-eyed, Murmured like a noontide bee,
"Shall I nestle near thy side?
Would'st thou me?"—And I replied,
"No, not thee."

> Death will come when thou art dead, Soon, too soon— Sleep will come when thou art fled. Of neither would I ask the boon I ask of thee, belov-ed Night— Swift be thine approaching flight, Come soon, soon!
